Sunday 14th November, 1993

93 C THE ISLAND

Tigers score their biggest victory

by Shamindra Ferdinando

he rebels last week scored their biggest military victory over the government forces when sea - bome raiders swooped down on Nagathivanthural naval base and the Pooneryn Army camp and swiftly proceeded to take control of the area. The highly re-captured the area after a slerce confrontation with the Naval and Army units which had been forced to vacate their positions. And at the same time the rebels had been able to block two determined attempts by the security forces to relieve forces trapped in the Poonerry area by inducting fresh troops into the battle zone, officers said Friday night. proceeded to take control of the area. The highly successful rebel amphi-Successful rebel amphi-pious assault shocked the D. B. Wijetunga adminis-ifration and the entire de-fence establishment cur-ferity under fire for the "ill-tated Val Devi offensive which resulted in the deaths of 118 personne including seven officers and the less of two 7-55 night.

night.
"We tried twice to carry out an amphibious assault to secure a beachhead west of Pooneryn," officers said.
The aim was to secure a The aim was to secure a beachhead and then seek Pooneryn, "officers said. The aim was to secure a beachhead and then seek the destruction of powerful enemy units now hunting for the Naval and Army ground troops who had escaped the initial rebel attack." and the loss of two T-55 deaths of 118 personnel including seven officers deaths of 118 personnel including seven officers and the loss of two T-55 main battle tanks (MBT) last month.

The attack on the Army and Navy positions had commenced in the early hours of Thursday, Apparently our troops rebel attack. "Apparently our troops were not prepared for re-bel assault," one officer rebel attack. At the time rebel attack. At the time of the rebel attack. Pooneryn was controlled by the first battalion of the Ceylon Light Infantry (CLI) commanded by lieutenant colonel T., T. R. de Silva, third battajion of the Gemunu Watch (3 GW) commanded by Major Daulagala and armour, artillery and other support units.

There had been about 1,500 soldiers and a cou-

The Army had captured Pooneryn and Sangupiddi in late October 91 in an amphibious assault. A small force of men were able to secure a beachhead at Comar, south of the military run Mandaith-1,500 soldiers and a cou-ple of hundred Navy per-sonnel at the Nagathivan-

However Tamils and diplomatic circles were expecting some major op-eration to mark leader V. Prabakaran's 39 birthday which falls later this

The Army had captured

The Pooneryn and the Nagathivanthural defences were the biggest to crumble under rebel bombardment in the Eelam War, defence analysts said. Initial communications between the troops trapped in Pooneryn and outside indicated that rebels have captured five 120mm mortars, one Armoured Personnel carrier (recovery vehicle), hundreds of assault rifles, ammunition boxes, communication equipment, and other military hardware. The rebels have also either captured or destroyed five Navy patrol boals, radar equipment, one Chinese Armoured Personnel varier and everything that rier and everything that could not be moved could not be moved away, Informed sources said two Czechoslovakian built T-55 Main Battle Tanks worth Rs. 7.2 million to the crusifivantar built T-55 Main Battle Tanks worth Rs. 7.2 million had been either destroyed or captured by the attackers within the first few hours of fighting described by analysts as the fiercest ever.

scribed by analysts as the fercest ever.
Officers said the losses, damages, compensation to families of personnel of the Nagathivanthural - Pooneryn debacle and expenditure incurred in efforts to take back the Pooneryn area, could run into well over one hundred may be two could run into well over one hundred may be two hundred million rupees. The rebels were able to seize about 70 million rupees worth weapons other military hardware in raids on Kaddaikadu camp in the peninsula on October 1 last year and Janakapura in late July this year.

this year.
Officers said the seizure of five 120mm mor-tars with a range of 8km would pose a consider-able danger to major

the north east region.
Even Palaly airbase, Vavuniya and Mandaithivu island would not be safe from 120mm mortars in the future.
The mortars could be used against major targets with devastating success. The rebels a few weeks back removed a powerful naval gun when they blew up an Israeli built Fast Attack Craft (FAC) off Point Pedr

Precarious

Officers admitted the security situation could become precarious if the rebels had taken away the five Naval boats missing following the Thursday's attack. About two years attack.; About two years back Sea Tigers seized a following the Thursday's attack.; About two years back Sea Tigers seized a 30 feet long inshore patrol craft off Mandaithivu and if they have captured five more vessels built for the Sri Lanka Navy the Sea Tigers could increase pressure on the security forces particularly naval bases including Elara (Karainagar). Elara is the headquarters to the Naval units operating in the northern naval area.

units operating in the northern naval area. The current efforts were to organise an op-eration aimed at saving the units trapped in Poonerya officers said. They said only 46 Navy and 12, Army personnel had escated the attack and reached the recently established Elephant, Pass Navy base. They are the only survivous upto Friday right, senior military, officers said. About 150, rebets, including women and about 250 security forces men and officers had been kiland officers had been kil-led within the first nine-ten hours of fighting. Officers said the rebels may try to force the re-maining Army and Navy units to surrender and take them to Jaffna.

LTTE recruits with cyanide capsules around their necks

Defence analysts be-lieve that the remaining Army and Navy units could not continue to re-pulse rebel advances on them unless the military high command finds someway to induct fresh troops into the area.

The first two attempts to induct troops have failed officers said. Combined efforts to launch amphibious assaults to secure beachheads west of Pooneryn had been effectively blocked by rebels thus forcing the forces trapped in Pooneryn to defend themselves.

"Time is running out," officers admitted while predicting further security forces losses within the next 24 hours unless troop reinforcements enter the battle zone.

Offices described the Pooneryn debacle as the worst so far faced by the security forces in the Eelam War. They said the eller Army commandos.

Eelam War. They said the eilte Army command and the sixth extrainment of the Germun Watch (Germun Weller) and the ground offensive to save the trapped forces.

While the security forces commanders were trying to save remaining units in Poonery if the rebels have inducted fresh groups to bolster the men who overran the defences. Analysts said the rebels have two routes to send supplies to Pooneryn and evacuate the wounded. The attack had helped the rebels to take the full control of the Kilali sea route and the Sangupiddi causeway thus allowing the rebel high command to reinforce units in Pooneryn area.

area.

Army officers believe the rebels would try to hold onto the area at any cost. The selzure of Pooneryn – Sangupiddi would help the rebels to maintain a supply route between the 'malighand and the Jaffina peninsula. The rebels used Pooneryn-Sangupiddi route extensively until the Army captured the area in late October 91.

Now the fall of Nagathivanthurain Nary base and Pooneryn camp close to the disputed Jaffina la-goon would give rebels easy access to the peninsula.

victory

Officers admitted that rebels have been able to score a strategic victory over the government security forces. In the past few years the seizure of all entry opinits to Jaffana by the security forces myeas, a part of the highly ambit louis. Jefan cells strategy aimed at defeating the rebels militarily.

However with the fall of two key bases within a day and the failure of the security forcesat least to send in reinforcements to save the trapped units in Pooneryn had increased fears among political and defence officials of an im-pending disaster analysts

The war has entered a new stage analysts said. The rebel success and the swiftness of the strike and the failure to send in reinforcements had created a precarious situation.

The entire defence and political strategy to defeat the rebels and pave the way for local government elections in the sensitive Eastern privince could be badly affected as a result of the ponerry dehacle.

Officers sid they have to secure the area and then proceed to build up new Army and Naval facilities. Without new camps the security forces have no chance of blocking rebel and civilian supply routes between the majoral and the peninsula.

The Pooneryn disaster has come less than five months after the destruction of the Janakapura base set up to protect settlements there.

Nearly 20 million rupees worth arms, ammunition and other millitary items were removed in that attack. Both attacks had taken place within the area that come under the second Army division (northern division).

The top brass must investigate and take steps to prevent set backs. Analysts said both politic-al and military miscalcula-tions have resulted in tragedies in the Eelam war.

Kokavil, Mankulam and now Poonery Nagathivan-thurai were lost. The Army could not afford to lose more men and material.

The authorities must first admit that the rebels were good fighters cap-able of attacking swiftly and creating major security problem.

Big news

Informed sources said the rebels have commenced using the Pooneryn success for a propaganda bittz against the government and its security forces. The details and the success of the rebel operation had become big news, both in Asian and western countries sources said. He any success and the success of the rebel operation had become big news, both in Asian and western countries sources said. He are the success of the rebel of the success to the success of the success to the success t

The Pooneryn attack had come about two months after President Wijetunga made some key changes in the command and control structure of the security forces with a view to defeating the rebels militarily.

the security increase with a view to defeating the re-bels militarily. The President had placed a special defence co-ordinating committee headed by the defence secretary General Hamilton Wanasinghe after disbanding the 'Joint Operations Command (JOC which failed to delive goods, analysts said. Analysts said every security strategy and other political and cover moves to defeat rebels would fail if they successfully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and force the remains and they will be successfully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success fully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would fail if they success they have they would be successfully halt a rescue operation and force the remains and they would have they wou

Victims of LTTE terror